Products: The result of our high standards and intense R&D is a product range that meets clients' needs, has an excellent quality-price ratio and meets the high standards of the very demanding medical sector. The key factor is the constant decrease in the levels of allergen tolerance among the population throughout the world, which is related to preservatives used in foods and connected to tenses used in cleaning agents. Tenses used in our products have ~1,000 times lower allergenic levels than those of regular disinfection and cleaning agents. Our production is in compliance with ISO standards (ISO 9001:2015 Planning and manufacturing of products; ISO 14001:2015 Environmental management; ISO 13485:2016 Quality management system for medical devices) and the products have been microbiologically tested according to EU standards. More than 20 products have been registered as medical devices (CE markings). The products are divided into 5 groups: cleansing, skincare, antiseptics, disinfection and cleaning agents for medical instruments, disinfection – and cleaning agents for surfaces.
